VICTORY FROM DEFEAT.

Two Notable Instances in the War Record of Great Britain.

Only on one occasion has a British force offered terms amounting to surrender before the commencement of an action, but this is what the Black Prince felt himself obliged to do by the overwhelming forces of the French before the battle of Poitiers. So certain did he consider defeat to be that he actually offered to give up all the plunder he had taken, disband the greater part of his force and give an under for seven years, and so confident were the French that they refused these terms. The result was one of the most brilliant victories that adorn the British arms.

In modern times the victory of Albuera, in the peninsular war, is another instance of apparent defeat being turned into victory. After the charge of the French Hussars and Polish lancers, all seemed lost. Ammunition was falling, a deep gully prevented the use of the bayonet, and Beresford was preparing for retreat when the valor of Colonel Hardinge saved the day. The battle, which lasted only four hours, was the scene of terrible carnage, and when it was over the so far victorious French were driven headlong down the hill, on the summit of which 1,500 unwounded men, the remnant of 7,500 unconquerable British soldiers, stood triumphant. —London Spectator.

FEMININE HEROISM.

Women Have Often Fought in Defense of Their Native Towns.

During the oppression of the Netherlands by the Spaniards in the sixteenth century it was no uncommon event for women to fight in defense of their native town. When in 1572 Don Frederic at the head of a large army besieged Haarlem, among the guerrillas that defended the town were 300 women. Their chief was a widow of distinguished family, about forty-seven years of age, who, at the head of her amazons, participated in many of the most fiercely contested actions of the siege.

Seven years later, at the siege of Maestricht, the women were of great assistance in making mines, enrolling themselves into companies under the direction of officers, or "the mistress" as they were called. The service they rendered was inestimable.

At the repulse of the Spaniards from the walls of Alkmaar women and even children showed a like courage, assisting their husbands and fathers in the desperate defense. History, indeed, gives many examples of such heroism, among which may be mentioned the brave conduct of the women that defended Saragossa in 1808, when they took the place of their slain husbands or brothers at the cannon side. —Blackwood's Magazine.

BEGGARS IN ITALY.

Their Game Seems to Be a Pretty Hard One to Beat.

It is hard to beat the beggar game in Italy. A fleet footedurchin and his maiden fell into a fox trot by the side of the carriage.

"Look, noble gentleman," he began, "look, beautiful lady! See the little ragazza—the poor girl—have pity on her! See, noble signor—you cannot refuse to give her something—your heart is too good—you are too generous, too noble, too handsome, to refuse. Have pity on her dreadful state, for look—she has one gray eye and one black one!"

We stopped the carriage. It was true. The maiden had indeed piteous-colored eyes, in addition to which she rejoiced in a most appalling squint. I gave her one copper. Hereupon her escort set up a howl at being ignored.

"But why should you have anything?" I asked.

"You ought to give me two coppers," he replied, with a twinkle, "for I have two black eyes, and she has only one." I was vanquished. I gave him his two coppers. I don't believe in beggars, but I think he earned them. —"A Levantine Log Book," by Jerome Hart.

Hired Mourners.

"It pays to be a mourner in St. Petersburg, and there are agencies which employ great numbers of vagrants and tramps for the purpose," says a writer.

"These agencies supply suitable clothing and pocket handkerchiefs—everything, in fact, except boots, which the tramp must show on his feet, or he will not be hired. When there is a more or less important funeral the tramps gather at the Nikolski market and are selected by an employee of the agency. The wage for the occasion, with tips, generally equals about 3 shillings." —London Mail.

Their Quarrels.

Mrs. Edgerton Blunt—But why did you leave your last place? Applicant—I couldn't stand the way the mistress and master used to quarrel, mum. Mrs. Edgerton Blunt (shocked)—Dear me! Did they quarrel much, then? Applicant—Yes, mum; when it wasn't me an' 'im it was me an' 'er.

Warned in Time.

Kadley—Why didn't you introduce me to that stunning Miss Peches yesterday? Didn't you see me speak to you as I passed? Kandor—Yes, but Miss Peches saw you and spoke to me first.—Philadelphia Press.

Very Different.

Merchant—I thought you told me he was a man of very good character? Quibbel—You must have misunderstood me. I said he was a man of good reputation.—Exchange.

The attachments of mere mirth are but the shadows of that true friendship of which the sincere affections of the heart are the substance.—Burton.

OLD ROMAN WAYS.

Beauty Baths, Perfumes, Toilets and Cruelty of the Women.

Women of ancient, luxurious Rome used to eat parsley as a mouth cleanser. Honey boiled in wine and aniseed was also a sweetener of the breath, and pastils of myrtle were employed for the same purpose. Silver tongs and knives were employed in caring for the nails. No woman of social eminence cut her own finger nails. Those who had not skilled slaves employed barbers. Perfection in these respects was one of the thirty beauties attributed to Helen of Troy. Great pains were bestowed on the feet, for it was considered that the breeding was betrayed by them as easily as by the hands. They were always much in evidence, the sandals worn not hiding them. Long, tapering fingers were highly prized. Various kinds of herb decoctions were employed to beautify the fingers. Many gives recipes for removing undesired substances from the nails.

Asses' milk contributed to the whiteness of the women's skin. It was sometimes poured into the bath and the whole body laved in it, and sometimes the hands and face were sponged with it from a silver basin, the soft linen towel completing the process. The hair was delicately scented, and all kinds of washes and burnishers were applied to it. It took many slaves to bring the tresses into the classic bands or high pyramids which were the fashion at various times. Perfumes were not only applied to hair, hands, clothes and the person generally, but pervaded the rooms, which were hung with garlands and decorated with blooms of many kinds. The dresses of Roman matrons were made brilliant with various processes of pressing and smoothing, machines being employed for the purpose.

Though most refined in the duties of the toilet, the women of that day were barbaric in their cruelty. Woe be to the poor slave who failed to follow her mistress' command. She was whipped by the public flagellator if she did not fall a prey to the personal fury of her mistress, who would hurl at her victim the mirror or anything else at hand and would not disdain to pierce her tender flesh with the long, ever ready hairpin if nails, teeth and hands were not sufficient.—Chicago News.

FIRE AND AIR.

The Ancients Recognized the Intimate Relations Between Them.

The intimate relation between fire and air was early recognized, seeing that experience soon taught that air was necessary for fire. The experiment of burning a candle in a closed vessel, now so familiar to every school-boy, is a very old one, and the influence of a blast of air on a furnace had been probably noticed from a very remote period. By some it was affirmed to be the food of fire, while by others the same belief was embodied in the phrase, "Air nourishes fire."

Again, it was long ago observed that niter, a substance well known to the chemical philosophers of the past, could produce intense ignition. It was hence inferred that, since niter possessed this property, it necessarily followed that the two substances resembled each other in composition. According to Robert Boyle, the air contained "volatile niter," while Lord Bacon held that air contained a "volatile, crude and windy spirit," and thunder and lightning were supposed to be due to the presence of minute particles of this niter diffused through air.

The important bearing of such observations is due to the fact that oxygen gas, which is one of the chief constituents of air and the one to which it owes its power of supporting combustion, also forms the largest elementary constituent of niter and is likewise the source of the power possessed by that body of supporting combustion.

The action of heat on metals in causing them to lose their metallic lustre had also not escaped notice, and Cardan, a philosopher who lived during the sixteenth century, in noticing the increase in weight that lead undergoes when heated in air, attributed it to the gas in the air, which feeds flame and which rekindles a body presenting an ignited point.

A Cautious Scot.

A Scotsman went to an English race meeting and boldly staked a sovereign. Strangely enough, the horse he backed proved a winner, and he went to the "bookie" to claim his winnings. The sporting man begrudgingly handed him 5 sovereigns. He looked at each one very carefully before placing it in his pocketbook. "Well," said the "bookie," with a snarl, "are you afraid they're bad?"

"Oh, no," said the Scotsman, "but I was just lookin' to mak' sure the bad yin I gie'd ye wisna among them!"

She Knew Him.

Bigley—Good fellows are scarce. I know only two men whom I can really call my very good friends. Miss Peppery—Yes? And what is the other man's name, Mr. Bigley?—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Inconsistent.

"Who are your best patients, doctor?" was asked. "The people who are always contending that life isn't worth living," replied the doctor without the slightest hesitation.—Philadelphia Record.

The Bright Side.

"I don't see how I could possibly be any worse off than I am, sir." "Then cheer up. You've got nothing further to worry about." —Pittsburgh Dispatch.

There never was any party, faction, sect or cabal whatsoever in which the most ignorant were not the most violent, for a bee is not a buster animal than a blockhead.—Pope.

Compensation of Adversity.

Richly—I wish I were you.

Poorly—For goodness sake, why?

Richly—Why, you can have the fun of proposing to every girl you meet and be sure of being refused.—Metropolitan.

The Killing of Birds.

Indiscriminate killing of birds is as much a violation of law in Texas as the taking of human life. The one is a misdemeanor, the other a felony. The present game law was passed in response to an earnest appeal of the Texas bird weevil convention and other representative bodies of farmers and business men, the object being to protect crops. At this season of the year it would be well to bear in mind section 3, as follows:

"It shall be unlawful for any person in the state of Texas to take or needlessly destroy the nest or the eggs of any wild bird or have such nest or eggs in his or her possession except as permitted by this act." This year let the farmers of Texas inquire into how the game law has been enforced, conclude Farm and Ranch.

Sharp Users.

In Germany watch attention is being paid to the usefulness of certain fishes, such as carp, that flourish in stagnant and muddy water, in destroying noxious mosquitoes and other noxious insects. It is the larva form, of course, not the winged insect, that is eaten by the fish.

PURE BLOOD IS VITAL.

Not everyone realizes the vital necessity of keeping the blood pure at all times. Impure blood not only causes various derangements and inability to perform one's work well but gives a ready welcome to all germs of disease with which it comes in contact. It is the rankest extravagance to allow the human blood to remain in an impure or impoverished condition.

"Our Standard Remedy" is the safest, purest and best blood purifier on the market to-day. It is a new remedy, a purely vegetable preparation composed of roots, barks and herbs, and contains no calomel or other injurious or metallic drug. 204 doses for $1, with a written guarantee that your money will be refunded if you are not cured of all troubles caused directly or indirectly by bad blood. You can purchase this wonderful new remedy at Clewe's. John McNeill, sole agent for Sonoma County. Ohm's Sulphur Springs, Sonoma.

Jury Convicts

in Few Minutes

After a brief deliberation the jury in the case of the State against Felicio Del Carlo, charged with burglary, returned a verdict of guilty in Judge Burnett's department of the Superior Court, yesterday afternoon. The accused was charged with entering the saloon and carrying off several boxes of cigars. He hurriedly departed from the place as a result of the unexpected arrival of the proprietor. Del Carlo was once tried in the Superior Court on a charge of arson committed here, but the evidence was not conclusive enough to convict. He is also said to have been once before convicted of grand larceny.

SUMMONS.

In the Superior Court of the County of Sonoma, State of California, No 232.

EMMA J. SMITH, Plaintiff

FRED A. SMITH, Defendant

Action brought in the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Sonoma, and the complaint filed in the office of the County Clerk of said County of Sonoma.

The people of the State of California send greeting to Fred A. Smith, defendant.

You are hereby directed to appear and answer the complaint in an action entitled as above, brought against you in the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Sonoma, within ten days after the service on you of this summons—leaved within this county, or within thirty days if served elsewhere. Said action is brought by plaintiff to obtain judgment against you, said defendant, to dissolve the bonds of matrimony now existing between said plaintiff and defendant upon the ground of failure to provide, as appears from the complaint, to which you are hereby referred.

And you are hereby notified that unless you appear and answer as above required, said plaintiff will take judgment for any money or damages demanded in the complaint, as arising upon contract, or plaintiff will apply to the court for any other relief demanded in the complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the said Superior Court this 14th day of March, 1906.
